Welcome to the Potsdam Graduate School

The Potsdam Graduate School (PoGS) strives to ensure optimal conditions during the PhD phase. It offers an attractive research and funding environment for PhD students. Within the Potsdam Graduate School young researchers find opportunities for further education in different academic and non-academic fields, as well as the possibility for national and international networking.

For further information in English please use our language switch in the upper right corner or click on this link and then follow the menu.
